

Training for Europe – T4E

Contributing to European civil society

(Berlin-Kaulsdorf, 29 October – 5 November 2006)

„Europe is our business - everybody can contribute!“

This is the general message Citizens of Europe and its partners want to reach people with.

In order to enable youth workers to provide professional support for youth activities in the field of „active Citizenship“, Citizens of Europe together with partner organisations will realise a 6 day seminar entitled „Training for Europe“.

Participants will gain experience on two different levels: They will train their practical skills in defining, planning and preparing projects. And by doing this within the framework of an international interactive seminar, they will learn about how to work in such a setting.

In seven steps we will develop concrete project ideas emerging from a brainstorming in the beginning to concrete action plans.

This project will not only lay the base for new activities in the youth sector. It will also improve the co-operation among the partner organisations involved and it will create a pool of trainers and youth workers in different countries who will collaborate also in future.
